Accuracy and Copyrights

Information provided on the official entry form may appear in any publication of CDA's choice and on the CDA website.

CDA is not responsible for incorrect information provided on entry forms that misrepresents the copyright of original ownership of ideas. CDA assumes that all entries are original and are the works and property of the entrant, with all rights granted there-in. CDA is not liable for violations of any third-party rights, including, but not limited to, claims of copyright, trademark, patent infringement, defamation, trade secrets, or trade dress on the part of the entrant.

CDA assumes that all images provided with entries are free of any third-party rights. The entrant may submit images that are works for hire for an employer only if entrant has secured permission for the submitted image(s) to appear in any publication of CDA's choice and the CDA website.

CDA reserves the right to move the received entries into a different category.

By submitting your work to CDA you agree to abide by these rules and you warrant and represent that (i) your entry is your original work, (ii) you have sufficient rights to the material you are submitting, (iii) these rights have been legally obtained and created, and (iv) publication of the material via various media will not infringe on any third party rights, including without limitation contractual rights, intellectual property rights, publicity and privacy rights, and rights against libel, defamation, and slander.

By submitting your work to CDA and accepting an Award, you grant CDA the right to edit, publish, promote, and otherwise use your entry either as submitted or in edited form without further permission, notice, or compensation, including but not limited to any publication and the CDA website and on the Internet. CDA reserves the right to forward the entrant's details onto Awards sponsors and partners. CDA reserves the right to change the T&C's at any time without further notice.

Review cases for disqualifications.

By submitting an entry, the entrant warrants that it is his/her original work and that they and CDA have permission to publish the material.

Submitter confirms that the work submitted is their own and they own all associated rights (unless it is licensed work and they have permission from the licensee to submit it here). We take no responsibility for any intellectual property rights infringement if you submit work copied by other people.

- Obligations: upon submission, the submitters agree to the following in case their submission is shortlisted for CDA:
 - The shortlisted winners must agree that CDA has the rights to use the submission in any publication, including its website(s), marketing material, affiliated trade magazines and press.
 - The shortlisted winners may be asked for and must present quality images of the winning project, defined as 300 dpi.
 - The shortlisted winner must provide a publication-quality headshot, if needed.
 - All shortlisted winners must be available for the CDA 2017 ceremony event.

- The winning project may be displayed at events and trade shows. Submitter will retain all rights to their submitted work and you will always be credited.

Disqualification

- In case of any attempt to directly contact any of the jury members, all submissions made by the applicant.
- All submissions must be anonymous; any submission that conveys the identity of the submitter will be disqualified.
- By submitting an entry, the entrant warrants that it is his/her original work and that they and CDA have permission to publish the material.
- Submitter confirms that the work submitted is their own and they own all associated rights (unless it is licensed work and they have permission from the licensee to submit it here). We take no responsibility for any intellectual property rights infringement if you submit work copied by other people. Anyone found to have infringed any intellectual property rights will have their work disqualified immediately.

In case of disqualification, the submission fees will not be refunded.
